MEMORANDUM FOR: Acting Director of Personnel

SUBJECT : Benefits After Retirement

STAT 1. [] has spoken to me about the fact that when a person retires from the Agency he receives his retirement pay and that's all. He contrasted this with a retired officer of a military service who, after retirement, is entitled to continuing medical service at little or no expense, post exchange and commissary privileges, free transportation on military vehicles on a space available basis, and the like. He wonders whether the Agency might have the ability to make available some similar services to its retired personnel.

STAT 2. [] recognizes that retired civilian employees of the government at large do not enjoy extra retirement benefits. He would appreciate, however, some thought being given to this subject as part of the study being given to making service with the Agency an attractive and rewarding proposition. He mentioned, for example, that after retirement many of our people could be expected to travel to various parts of the world. If they were in need of help they could obtain the usual services the State Department would offer to any citizen travelling in a foreign country, but he is of the opinion that a retired Foreign Service Officer would probably receive a great deal more consideration if he approached a State Department facility under like circumstances.
